The Plant Cell, an official publication of the American Society of Plant Biologists since 1989, is ranked as one of the top journals publishing primary research in the plant sciences. The Plant Cell publishes novel research of special significance in plant biology, especially in the areas of cellular biology, molecular biology, genetics, development, and evolution aimed at plant scientists working world-wide in nearly all industries including academia, corporations, pharmacology, research, non-profits, and government.

Established in 1926, Plant Physiology is an international journal devoted to physiology, biochemistry, cellular and molecular biology, genetics, biophysics, and environmental biology of plants. Published by the American Society of Plant Biologists, Plant Physiology is one of the oldest and most well-respected plant science journals aimed at reaching plant scientists across the world working in industry, academia, government, pharmacology, and research.
